Campus Sexual Assault in the Headlines:
How Communities Can Pivot to Prevention
Part One and Two
Community Conversation Agreement
Objectives

1. Discuss the impact of media in how communities and survivors consume stories about sexual assault.
2. Understand the complexities of defining campus community and individual identity when your school’s name becomes synonymous with a rape story.
3. Discuss how stories of sexual assault can influence campus culture and build a different generation of students and alumni.
College Sexual Violence in the News

2/26/2019, 11:07PM

How

BROCK TURNER

Former Stanford University swimmer faces rape charges

More Ethics Charges Brought Against Official in Duke Case

The North Carolina State Bar accused Michael B. Nifong of “systematic abuse of prosecutorial discretion” in the sexual assault case against three former members of the Duke University lacrosse team.

By Duff Wilson
Jan. 25, 2007
How is College Sexual Assault Portrayed in the Media?

1. How are perpetrators portrayed? What about perpetrators of color?
2. How are victims/survivors portrayed?
3. How is alcohol discussed?
4. How are college communities described and discussed?
Community Mapping

Who are the players?

What are their wants and needs?
Community Mapping

Who is in the college community orbit?

What are their wants and needs in the immediate aftermath of a news story?
Community Mapping

Who is in the larger community orbit?

What are their wants and needs in the immediate aftermath of a news story?
Community Identity Reflection

1. How are communities tied to colleges? And what does this relationship look like?

2. How does a college’s identity, such as a sports identity, affect a community?

3. How does a media #MeToo moment at a local college affect a community?
Community Healing Reflection

1. What does community healing currently look like?

2. What support services are available to a community and/or college after a #MeToo media moment?

3. How does healing pair with prevention?
Invite EROC to your next conference, training, or company event!

- We offer trainings on various topics for multiple populations, including:
  - Trainings for students on their rights
  - Trainings for young people on intersectionality, anti-white supremacy organizing
  - Trainings for professionals on sexual violence, workplace sexual harassment, and Title IX

Email
Programs@endrapeoncampus.org
1. text
Text