THE INTERSECTIONS

ECONOMIC JUSTICE

The most vulnerable communities, facing poverty and economic hardship as well as sexual violence, are dealing with the compounding and layering of burdens that impact basic needs.

LGBTQ EQUALITY

Norms that support gender inequities, and a general acceptance of violence do not only perpetuate sexual violence but also breed homophobia and transphobia.

REPRODUCTIVE RIGHTS

Ending sexual assault is closely connected to protecting reproductive rights. The rights to control one's own body and make reproductive choices are basic needs for all survivors.

HEALTH & WELLNESS

Healthcare must be accessible for all. Wellness tools that recognize the impact of trauma provide more pathways to healing and resiliency for survivors and families.

TRANSFORMATIVE JUSTICE

Beyond the criminal justice system, many survivors of sexual assault seek transformative spaces for reconciliation and accountability with community supports.

IMMIGRANT JUSTICE

People who are immigrants and survivors of sexual violence often face the danger of immigration enforcement and the complex impact of the criminal justice system.

RACIAL JUSTICE

To end sexual violence there must be steadfast commitment to dismantle oppression based on race and advocacy for women of color survivors of sexual assault.
