Act

Act Phase

1

TAKE ACTION. At last, network teams implement their projects. Depending on the project, this process could be a single event that supports ongoing community building and/or the launch of a specific campaign that lasts for several months. Ideally, at this time, a variety of campaigns/ actions are unfolding across the community, engaging different aspects of the community simultaneously.

IDENTIFY NEW OPPORTUNITIES

Through the learnings and insights gathered from community organizing, and as the network looks towards another cycle of the process, opportunities for further action are identified. Over time, it is important to assess where the community is at in its level of comfort, engagement, and ownership of the issues of domestic and sexual violence, so that the network can design the next approach to the cycle based on what will carry the community deeper into its participation in social change.

CELEBRATE THE NETWORK AND ITS ACHIEVEMENTS

The network takes time to celebrate their accomplishments and to feel connected to the greater vision. Because social change is a long process, it is critical to celebrate small successes along the way, through food, connection, and recognition of network members' contributions.

DEBRIEF WHAT WAS DISCOVERED AND LEARNED

Network teams debrief what worked and what could be improved about specific actions. Lessons learned are documented and shared across the network to increase innovation and learning, cross-pollinate ideas, and inspire one another as the network cycles through and deepens work in each phase.

Community Mobilization

Goals of Sustained Action

- Has a deepening/layering/building effect beyond a single activity
- Increases relationships and grows the network
- Is driven, run and sustained by the community (beyond one organization's control, calendar or expectation)

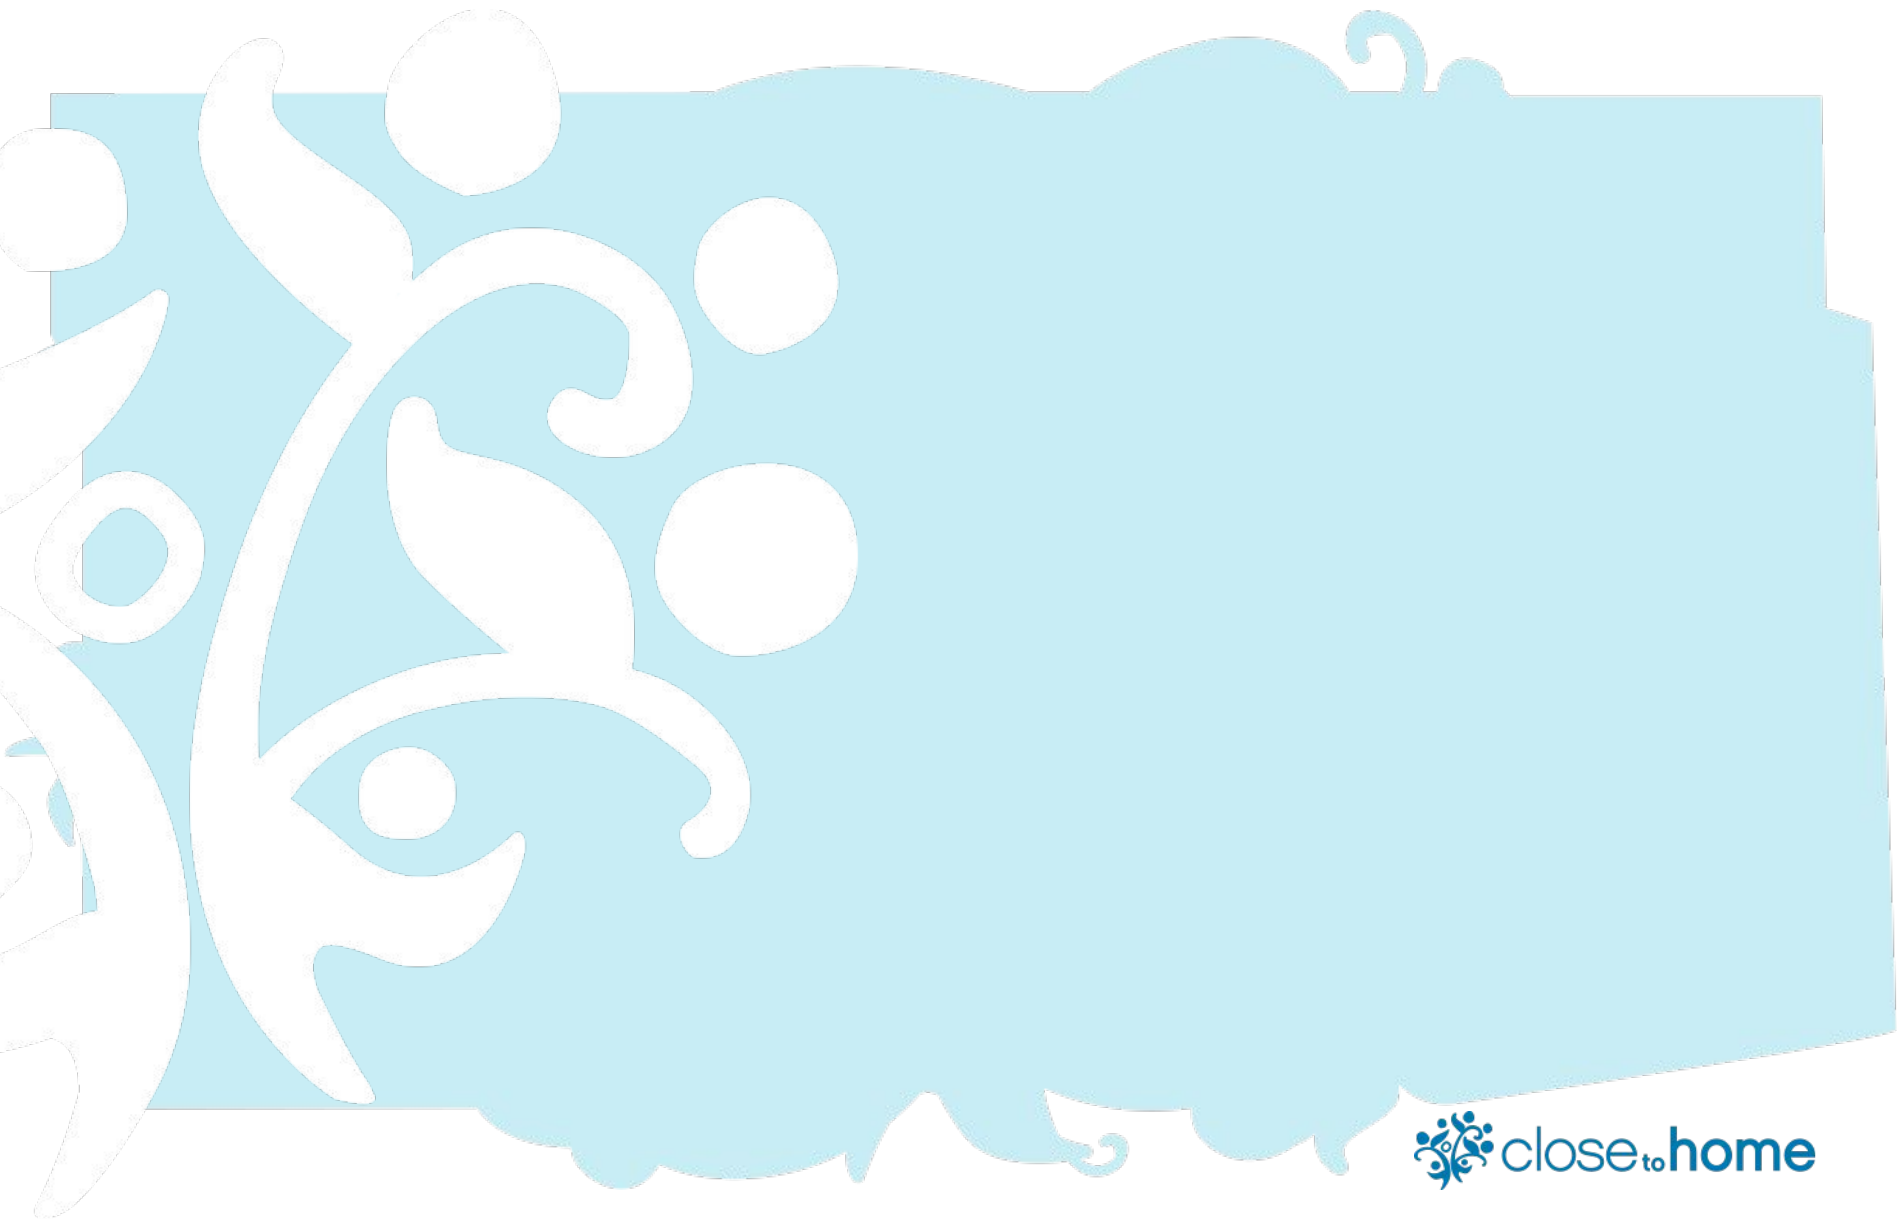

Is this Action/Mobilization?

- Where is the energy in your network? What is your community focused on right now?
 - How will your Act Phase make D/SV/TDV more public?
 - How will it create opportunities for people to step into new ways of being and action on an ongoing basis?
 - How will it shift social norms and deepen relationships?
